BIO

Born in Rome in 1976, he grew up on film sets and in editing rooms alongside his father Marcello, a director. He began working on set at a young age, later specialising as an editor, collaborating with masters such as Robert Altman, David Lynch, and Bennett Miller. He transitioned to directing music videos, commercials, documentaries, and eventually films.

With a small camera, he created Managers, set among the homeless in Rome, and directed award-winning short films. His film Pablo, inspired by Pablo Neruda and performed by street actors, was featured at festivals including Montreal and AFI, earning praise from Variety and The New York Times. In the US, he worked on campaigns for 2 Fast 2 Furious and directed for Universal Music, BBC, and Channel 4. His international experience spans Russia, Thailand, Canada, and Europe. In 2007, he directed the rockumentary Dall'altrapartedellaluna about Negramaro, showcased at the Venice Film Festival. In 2008, he co-directed Narciso with his father, winning several festival awards. Notable works include Crimini 2 (RAI), Gli anni verdi (2010), Faccio un salto all'Avana (2011), and the series Benvenuti a Tavola (Mediaset). He has directed commercials and music videos for brands such as Pepsi, Sony, and Trenitalia.

In 2016, he released La Leggenda di Bob Wind, which was well-received by critics and audiences alike. He continues to direct series and commercials and is currently in pre-production on two films: Moonbus and Granny Gate and the Lizard King.
